From the Home Journal.

Annie Law.

BY W. W. FOSDICK.

Her eye is like the mignonette
In morning's silver dew,
And deepens into violet
When night o'ercrest its blue.
A hyacinthine liquid gleam,
Without a speck or stain;
A diamond in love's diadem,
The eye of Annie Law.

The sunshine falls upon her face,
As rosy as the dawn,
And every movement bears the grace
Of forest nymph or fawn.
Her forehead's fair as winter's snow,
Or blanchet and bloomy hair,
And redder than her berries, glow
The lips of Annie Law.

Oh! were she but a shepherdess,
Then I would tend her flock,
And with the purple pansies dress,
Her long and sunny locks.
My days would be so pleasant,
Though my roof were thatched with straw
That a king would be a peasant
For my cut and Annie Law.

Love vs. Philosophy.

BY FINLEY JOHNSON.

'Tis true that I have flirted
With many a pretty girl,
And praised each golden ringlet
And kissed each flowing curl.
'Tis true that I have told them
As I gazed within their eyes,
That with them life was heaven—
Without them—I must die;
But when they proved unfaithful,
Perchance I may have sighed;
But really, 'twas my honor,
I never really died.

God bless the dear sweet creatures,
They are my life—my pride;
And I am only happy
When sitting by their side;
But when they won't believe me,
Whatever I may say;
They tell me that my honey
Comes in a natural way;
And though this conduct cruel
May fill my soul with pain;
I find that when I lose my heart
It always comes back again.

Baltimore, Md.

THE DOLLAR.

BY GEORGE LIPPARD.

They brought him a dollar.
He took it, clutched it in his long skinny fingers, tried its sound against the bed-post, and then gazed at it long and intently with his dull, leaden eyes.

That day, in the hurry of business,
death had struck him even in the street.
He was hurrying to collect the last month's rent, and was on the verge of the miserable court where his tenants herded like beasts in their kennels—he was there with black book in hand, when death laid his hand upon him.

He was carried home to his splendid mansion. He was laid upon a bed with a satin coverlet. The lawyer, the relations, and the preacher were sent for.
All day long he lay without speech, moving only his right hand, as though in the act of counting money.

At midnight he spoke.
He asked for a dollar, and they brought one to him, and lean and gaunt
he sat up in his death-bed, and clutched
it with the grip of death.

A shaded lamp stood on the table near the sickbed. Its light fell faintly around the splendid room, where chairs, and carpets, and mirrors, silken bed and lofty ceiling, all said, gold!
as plainly as lips can say it.

His hair and eyebrows were white—
His cheeks sunken, and his lips thin and surrounded by wrinkles that indicated the pattern of avarice. As he sat up in his bed with his neck bared, and the silken coverlet wrapped about his lean frame, his white hair and eyebrows contrasted with his wasted and wrinkled face, he looked like a ghost.

And though there was life in his leaden eye—and that life was centered on that dollar which he gripped in his clenched fist.

His wife, a pleasant-faced, matronly woman, was seated at the foot of the bed. His son, a young man of twenty-one, dressed in the latest touch of fashion, sat by the lawyer. The lawyer sat before the table, pen in hand, and gold specimens on his nose. There was a large parchment spread before him.

"Do you think he will make a will?"
asked the son.

"Hardly compos mentis yet," was the whispered reply. "Wait, he'll be lucid after while."

"My dear," said the wife, "had I not better send for a preacher?"

She rose and took her dying husband by the hand, but he did not mind. His eyes were upon the dollar.

He was a rich man. He owned palaces in Walnut and Chestnut streets, and hotels and courts on the outskirts. He had iron in the State copper mines of the lake somewhere; he had golden interests in California. His name was bright upon the records of twenty banks
—he owned stock of all kinds, and he had a half a dozen papers in his pay.

He knew but one crime—to be in debt
without the power to pay.

He knew but one virtue—to get money.

That crime he had never forgotten—this virtue he had never forgotten, in the long way of thirty-five years.

To hunt down a debtor, to distress a tenant, to turn a few additional thousands by a sharp speculation—these were the main achievements of his life.

He was a good man—his name was upon a silver plate upon the pew-door of a velvet-cushioned church.

He was a benevolent man—for every thousand dollars which he wrung from tenants of his courts, or the debtors who writhed beneath his heels, he gave ten dollars to some benevolent institution.

He was a just man—the fellows and jail always found him a faithful and unwavering advocate.

And now he is a dying man—see!—
As he sits upon the bed of death, with the dollar in his clenched hand.

Oh! holy dollar, object of his lifelong pursuit, what comfort hast thou for him now in his pain of death?

At length the dying man survived and dictated his will. It was strange to see the mother and son and lawyer nuder-tering, and sometimes wrangling, beside the bed of death. All the while the testator clutched the dollar in his right hand.

While the will was being made, the preacher came—even he who held the pastoral charge of the great church, whose pew doors bore saintly names on silver plate, and whose seats on the Sabbath day groaned beneath the weight of respectability, broadcloth, and satin.

He came and said his prayers—decorously and in measured words—but never once did the dying man relax his hold on the dollar.

"Can't you read me something, say—quick, don't you see I'm going?" said the lady, "I am afraid she will make herself sick. But how did you happen to get home so quick? I did not expect you till night."

The preacher, whose cravat was of the whitest, took a book with golden clasp from the table.

And he read:
"And I say unto you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of God."

"Who said those words—who—who—who?" fairly shrieked the dying man, shaking the hand which clenched the dollar, at the preacher's head.

The preacher hastily turned over the leaf and did not reply.

"Why did you never tell me of this before? Why did you never preach from it as I sat in your church. Why —why?"

The preacher did not reply, but turned over another leaf. But the dying man would not be quieted.

"And it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of God, is it? Am I not rich? What tenant did I ever spare—what debtor did I ever spare—what debtor did I ever release? And you stood up Sunday after Sunday and preached to us, and never said one word about the camel!"

The preacher in search of a consoling passage, turned rapidly over the leaves, and, in his confusion, came to this passage which he read:

"Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Your gold and silver are cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire; ye have heaped treasures for the last days. Behold the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth; and the cries of them which have reaped, are entered into the ears of the Lord of the Sabbath."

The preacher who had blundered through the passage from James, which he had just quoted, knew not what to say. He was, perchance, terrified by the very look of his dying parishioner.

Then the wife drew near and strove to comfort him, and the son (who had been reading the will), attempted a word or two of consolation.

And, with the dollar in his hand, he sank into death, talking of stock, of rent, of copper mine, of camel, of tenant, and debtor, until the breath left his lips. Thus he died.

When he was cold, the preacher rose and asked the lawyer whether the deceased left anything to such and such a charitable society, which had been en-grafted on the preacher's church.

And the wife closed his eyes and tried to wrench the dollar from his hand, but in vain. He clutched it as though it were the only Saviour to light him through the darkness of eternity.

And the son sat down with dry eyes,
and thought of the hundreds of thousands which were now his own.

Next day there was a hearse followed by a train of carriages nearly a mile in length. There was a crowd around an open grave, an elegant sermon on the virtues of the deceased, by the preacher.
There was fluttering of crape badges,
and rolling of carriages, and—no tears. They left the dead man and returned to the palace, where sorrow died even as the crape was taken from the door knob.

And in the grave the dead hand still clenched the dollar—White Banner.

Mr. Brown's Mishaps.

We don't know when we have laughed more heartily than at the following, which we find in an exchange, under the caption of "Mr. Brown's Mishaps."

Mr. Eliphelet Brown was a bachelor of 35, or thereabouts; one of those men who seem born to pass through the world alone. Save this peculiarity, there was nothing to distinguish Mr. Brown from the multitude of other Browns who are born, grow up and die in this world of ours. It chanced that Mr. Brown had occasion to visit a town some fifty miles distant on matters of business. It was his first visit to the place, and he proposed stopping for a day, in order to give himself an opportunity to look about. Walking leisurely across the street he was at once accused by a child, who ran up to him exclaiming—

"Father, I want you to buy me some candy."

"Father!" was it possible that he a bachelor was addressed by that title? He could not believe it! "Who were you speaking to, my dear?" he inquired of the little girl.

"I spoke to you, father," said the little one surprised.

"Really," thought Mr. Brown, "this is embarrassing." "I am your father,
my dear," he said. "What is your name?"

The child laughed heartily, evidently thinking it a good joke. "What a funny father you are," she said; "but ain't you going to buy me some candy?"

"Yes, yes; I'll buy you a pound if you don't call me father any more," said Mr.
Brown nervously.

The little girl clapped her hands with delight. The promise was all she remembered. Mr. Brown proceeded to a confectionary store, where he actually bought a pound of candy, which he placed in the hands of the little girl.

In coming out of the store they encountered the girl's mother.

"Oh, mother," said the little girl,
"just see how much candy father bought
me."

"You shouldn't have bought her so much at a time, Mr. Jones," said the lady, "I am afraid she will make herself sick. But how did you happen to get home so quick? I did not expect you till
night."

"Jones—I—madam—" said the embarrassed Mr. Brown, "it's all a mistake;
I ain't Jones at all. It isn't my name.
I am Eliphelet Brown, of W—, and this is the first time I ever came to this city."

"Good Heavens! Mr. Jones, what has put this silly tale in your head? You have concluded to change your name, have you? Perhaps it is your intention to change your wife!"

"Mrs. Jones' tone was defiant, and this only tended to increase Mr. Brown's embarrassment.

"I haven't any wife, Madam; I never had any. On my word as a gentleman,
I never was married."

"And do you intend to palm this off upon me?" said Mrs. Jones, with excitement. "If you are not married, I would like to know who I am?"

"I have no doubt you are a most respectable lady," said Mr. Brown, "and I conjecture from what you have said, that your name is Jones, but mine is Brown, and always was."

"Melinda," said her mother, suddenly, taking the child by the hand, and leading her up to Mr. Brown, "Melinda, who is that gentleman?"

"Why, that's father," was the child's immediate reply, as she confidently placed her hands in his.

"You hear that, Mr. Jones, do you?
You hear that that innocent child says,
and yet you have the unblushing impudence to deny that you are my husband.
The voice of Nature, speaking through the child, should overwhelm you. I'd like to know if you are not her father, why are you buying candy for her? I would like to have you answer that. But I presume you never saw her in your life."

"I never did. On my honor, I never did. I told her I would give her the candy if she would not call me father any more."

"You did, did you? Bribing your own child not to call you father! Oh, Mr.
Jones, this is infamous! Do you intend to desert me, sir, and leave me to the cold charities of the world—and is this your first step?"

Mrs. Jones was so overcome, that, without any warning, she fell back upon the sidewalk in a fainting fit. Instantly a number of persons ran to her assistance.

"Mr. Jones, is your wife subject to fainting in this way?" asked the first comer of Mr. Brown.

"I don't know. She isn't my wife.
I don't know anything about her," stammered Mr. Brown.

"Why, it's Mrs. Jones, ain't it?"
"Yes, but I'm not Mr. Jones."

"Sir!" said the first speaker, sternly,
"this is no time to jest. I trust you are not the cause of the excitement which must have occasioned your wife's fainting fit. You had better call a coach and carry her home directly."

Poor Brown was dumfounded. "I wonder," thought he, "whether it is possible, that I am really Jones, and have gone crazy, in consequence of which I fancy that my name is Brown. And yet I don't think I'm Jones. In spite of all, I will insist that my name is Brown."

"Well, sir, what are you waiting for?
It is necessary that your wife should be removed immediately. Will you order a carriage?"

Brown saw that there was no use to protract the discussion by a denial. He, therefore, without contesting the point,
ordered a hackney coach to the spot.
Mr. Brown accordingly lent an arm to Mrs. Jones, who had somewhat recovered, and was about to close the door upon her.

"Where is that?" asked the driver.
"I don't know," said Mr. Brown.
"No, 19 H— street," said the gentleman already introduced, glancing con-temptuously at Mr. Brown.

"Will you help me out, Mr. Jones?"
said the lady, as the carriage drew up to the door, "I'm not fully recovered from the fainting fit to which your cruelty drove me."

"Are you quite sure that I am Mr.
Jones?" asked Brown with anxiety.

"Of course," said Mrs. Jones.
"Then," said he resignedly, "I suppose I am. But if you will believe me, I was firmly convinced this morning that my name was Brown, and to tell the truth, I haven't a recollection of this house."

Brown helped Mrs. Jones into the parlor, but good heavens! conceive the astonishment of all, when a man was discovered seated in an arm chair, who was the very face of Mr. Brown, in form, features, and every other respect?

"Gracious!" ejaculated the lady,
"what is my husband?"

"An explanation was given, the mystery cleared up, and Mr. Brown's pardon sought for the embarrassing mistake.—
It was freely accorded by Mr. Brown, who was quite delighted to think that after all, he was not Mr. Jones, with a wife and child to boot. Mr. Brown has not since visited the place where the Comedy of Errors happened. He was afraid of losing his identity.

It was a fortunate thing, perhaps, for Mr. Jones that he happened to be at home just at this particular time.

I'll Try; or, the Yankee Marksman.

The following took place during the revolutionary war. Lord Percy's regiment was about commencing to fire at a target on Boston Common, one day,
when an awkward looking country boy,
that had overgrown his jacket and trow-
sers, came up.

"Now, my boys, for a trial of your skill!" said Lord Percy; "imagine the mark to be a Yankee—and here is a guinea for whoever hits his heart."

Jonathan drew near to see the trial.
When the first soldier fired and missed, he slapped his hand on his thigh and laughed immoderately. Lord Percy noticed him. When the second soldier fired and missed, Jonathan threw up his old hat and laughed again.

"Why do you laugh, fellow?" asked Lord Percy, crossly.

"To think how safe the Yankee are,
if you must know," replied Jonathan.

"Why, do you think you could shoot better?"

"I don't know, I could try."
"Give him a gun, soldier, and you may return the fellow's laugh," said Percy, turning to one of his men.

Jonathan took the gun, and looking to every part of it carefully, said, "It won't burst will it? Father's gun don't shine like this, but I guess it's a rather better gun."

"Why? Why do you guess so?" asked Percy.

"Cause I know what that'll den, and I have some doubts about this 'ere," replied Jonathan. "But look 'ere! you called that 'ere mark a Yankee, and I won't fire at a Yankee."

"Well, you may call it a British regular, if you please," said Percy.

"Well, a regular it is then. Now for freedom, as father says."

Jonathan raised his gun and fired.
"There, I guess that 'ere red coat has got a hole in him!" cried he, turning to the soldiers. "Why don't you laugh at me now, as that 'ere fellow said you might?"

"You awkward rascal, that was an accident. Do you think you could hit the mark again?" inquired Percy.

"I don't know, indeed, but I can give it a trial."

"Give him another gun, soldiers, and take care that the clown don't shoot you.
I should not fear to stand before the mark myself."

"I guess you had better not try it."
"Why; do you think you could hit
me?"

"I don't know, indeed, but I could try it."

"Fire away, then."

Jonathan fired, and again hit the mark.

IMPORTANT FROM NICARAGUA.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 30.

The steamship Empire City is below, coming up, from Havana.

The dispatches from the Balise state that the Granada touched at Greytown and brought off 51 of Walker recruits.

Greytown was in the possession of the Costa Ricans.

Gen Walker had not been heard from for three weeks. The Costa Ricans being in possession of Greytown cut off his communication with the Atlantic coast.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.

The anxiously expected correspondence between Gen. Scott and the Secretary of War, relative to the former's pay, was sent to the Senate to-day.

It is now exclusively in the possession of the committee on military affairs, who will make an examination and determine whether it can with propriety be printed.

If not, it will be filed among the secret archives of the government.

The members of the select committee say they will sit 8 or 10 hours a day if necessary in order to complete taking testimony this week.

The Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms has gone from the city for witnesses.

The committee on foreign affairs in the House will report a French spoliation bill, but its friends will not attempt its consideration, owing to a pressure of other business and for want of time for its due consideration.

The committee on elections have formally decided to report a resolution declaring vacant the seat held by Whitfield, but making no recommendation relative to Reeder.

CHARLESTON, Feb. 2.

Florida dates to the 15th, state that a requisition has been made by Gen. Harney, for three companies of troops within 30 days.

The Indians are supposed to be concentrated near New Smyrna. Plans have been laid for the troops to surround and intercept them.

SAD NEWS FROM NICARAGUA.—The private intelligence that reaches us from the seat of war in Nicaragua is even more distressing than that we receive through the papers.

We have seen a letter from E. E. Seales, son of Dr. Seales, who states that out of the large and gallant party which left this city last June under the command of Col. Allen, only eight remain alive.

George Burnett, a very estimable and well known young man, died on the afternoon of the day the letter was written—December 20. Warden Pope was also dead.

The writer further states that he had not changed his clothing for four months, and that he and all his comrades were covered with vermin.

A change of raiment was promised them on the 1st of January, but there was no prospect of the promises being fulfilled.

THE DISEASE PRESTON S. BROOKS DIED OF.—At the Pathological Society, on Wednesday evening, Dr. Alonzo Clark exhibited a specimen of Edema cerebri—a comparatively rare disease—marking that persons who die of it were generally supposed to die of cholera.

Profron S. Brooks, doubtless, died of this and not of cholera, as was reported. So, probably, did George Washington.

The effusion which proves fatal is the result of acute inflammation, and always comes on very rapidly. This is the disease which Dr. Buck, of this city, has successfully treated by scarification.

Several articles of his upon the subject have been published in the National Medical Transactions. The trouble is, however, to discover what the exact difficulty is, the patient generally dying before it is recognized.—N. Y. Times.

CLAY MONUMENT.—DESIGN SELECTED.—The Board of Directors of the Clay Monument Association yesterday adopted the design submitted by Mr. Julius W. Adams, of this city.

Mr. Adams' design is a column 119 feet high, resting upon a base of 40 feet square in exterior, with an interior of sufficient dimensions to contain the sarcophagus, and a stairway running to a terrace 17 feet from the ground, at which point the shaft proper has its beginning.

The design is graceful in its proportions, suggests the idea of permanence and stability, appropriate to the fame of him whose virtues it commemorates, and is withal as happy a selection as could well have been made from designs exclusively monumental in character.

The material will be Kentucky stone of a buff color and great durability. Its cost will be $50,000. We have now only time to mention this item of general interest to the public.

We shall hereafter give our readers a more detailed description of the design.—Lex. Statesman.

GREAT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES.

A CONTRAST.—The N. Y. Times institutes a contrast between Great Britain and the United States, highly flattering to the latter.

We abstract the principal features. The treasury returns for 1856 show that the outstanding public debt of the federal government of the United States amounted to $307,727,000, while the public debt of the various States amounted to $199,718,000—forming together only $507,445,000.

The public debt of Great Britain before the late war was $797,000,000, to which $21,000,000 new loans were added during the war—together £818,033,000 sterling, or about $4,093,000,000. The indirect taxation paid by the people of the United States for the support of the federal government, in the shape of import duties, amounts to $64,000,000.

The direct and indirect taxation paid by the people of Great Britain for the support of the crown, in the way of customs and excise duties, stamps, income tax and property tax, amounts to £61,000,000 sterling, or about five-fold the burden of the people of the United States.

The expenses of the British government are thus, in our currency, for a single year, $329,000,000, or about one hundred millions more than the whole principal of the public debt of the Federal and State Governments.

The treasury returns also show that our system of railways, which embraces about 23,242 miles stands in capital and funded debt $736,000,000, though costing, by the aid of State and city loans, about $829,739,400, or $93,700 per mile, while the system of Great Britain, embracing only 3,334 miles, stands in capital and funded debt $1,617,000,000, or $195,135 per mile.

And it further appears that the whole railway debt of this country, in the shape of mortgages and debentures, is $434,266,000, while the same incumbrances upon the English system reaches nearly this sum in debentures alone, say $375,200,000, while including what are known as preference shares, the sum total is $639,996,000.

SCARLET FEVER.—This disease is prevailing to a considerable extent in some sections of the Western country, and may have its cases among our readers.

Various remedies and alleviations have been published; but we have more faith in the following prescription than any other:—

From the first day of the illness, and as soon as we are sure of its nature, the patient must be rubbed morning and evening over the whole body with a piece of bacon, in such a manner that with the exception of the head, a covering of fat is everywhere applied.

In order to make this rubbing-in somewhat easier, it is best to take a piece of bacon the size of the hand, that we may have a firm grasp.

On the soft side of this, slits are to be made in order to allow the oozing out of the fat. The rubbing must be thoroughly performed, and not too quickly, in order that the skin may regularly be saturated with the fat.

The beneficial results of the application are soon obvious; with a rapidly bordering on magic, all, even the most painful symptoms of the disease are allayed; quiet sleep, good humor, and the appetite return, and there remains only the impatience to quit the sick room.

DEMOCRATIC VIEW OF PORTER'S SOVEREIGNTY.—In alluding to the question of slavery in the Territories the Penny-Calendar, Buchanan's special and confidential organ, speaks of that view "of the subject" which has been so widely asserted in the North and so generously endorsed in the South, that a legally elected Territorial Legislature has the right to prohibit slavery in a Territory.

Here is Squatter Sovereignty for you, pure and undefiled. Here is the doctrine presented by Mr. Buchanan's home organ, and which it declares has been "generously endorsed in the South." When and by whom? We call the attention of our neighbors of the Examiner and Enquirer to the heretical teaching of old Buck's confidential organ. It is more than probable that Senator Bigler interpreted Buchanan's views on the subject correctly.

In fact, it is almost certain that he did. And this being so, we call upon all our Southern Democratic contemporaries to open their batteries upon the new President at once.—Richmond Whig.

WHAT NEED OF AMERICANS.—Our Democratic friends will be sorry to hear of the resignation of Mr. H. Kolman, the postmaster at Greensboro.

The cause of his resignation is, as we have been told, that he failed to vote for B. and B., which exasperated his foreign-loving brethren so much that it was asked of him why he failed to toe the mark.

It was then that he had never been naturalized, and could not face some of Sam's boys, who made it their business to challenge every foreigner offering to vote.

And yet this man has been as we have been informed, voting regularly in all elections and holding an office of great trust under the General Government. Will any say there is no necessity for an American party?

Editor (Ala. Whig).

A WRINKLE ABOUT THE AGE OF HORSES.—A few days ago we met a gentleman from Alabama, who gave us a piece of information in regard to telling the age of a horse, after he or she has passed the age of nine years, which is new to us, and will be, we are sure, to most of our readers.

It is this; after the horse is nine years old, a wrinkle comes on the eyelid at the upper corner of the lower lid, and every year thereafter he has one well defined wrinkle for each year.

If, for instance, a horse has three wrinkles, he is twelve; if four, he is thirteen. Add the number of wrinkles to nine and you have it. So says the gentleman, and he is confident it will never fail.

As a good man may have horses over nine, it is easily tried. If it is true, the horse dentist must give up his trade.—Southern Farmer.

TWO YOUTHS WHO HAD BEEN SKATING near Lewistown, Penn., were attacked with violent cramps and inflammation, and one of them died from the effects on Friday last week.

It is conjectured they had become heated and then laid down upon the ice.

DISPOSITION OF THE PRESENT ADMINISTRATION.

A Washington letter says: "The members of the present administration are making their arrangements for withdrawal after the 4th of March.

It is probable that the President will remain here until the middle of March, and then visit Cuba for a month or more. Mrs. Pierce's health has always been feeble, and her physician's advice against the sudden change from this climate to that of New England in the Spring, owing to a pulmonary tendency.

The family are much urged to make a tour of the Southern States, but Mrs. Pierce has invariably shrunk from the demonstration that would necessarily attend such movements, and these invitations will hardly be accepted.

Mr. Marcy is established so comfortably in the west end that he will probably let another quarter day roll over his head after the 4th of March, especially as his former residence at Albany has been recently sold.

Mr. Guthrie's establishment in Louisville has been kept open during his stay here, and will be ventilated early in March for his reception.

Mr. McClelland, like a sensible man of business, will go at once back to his profession. Mr. Davis, after attending the executive session of the Senate—to which he is elected—will visit Mississippi, and settled down again into a lachrymose member of Congress.

Mr. Dolbin entertains the purpose of seeking a genial climate, to recruit his health, which has suffered seriously by his labors here. Mr. Campbell will return immediately to Philadelphia, and Mr. Micawber, may wait for something to turn up.

In a few months more the Administration will pass into history, and the man who compose it, into comparative oblivion. Such is the fate of political honors.

THE BEAUTIES OF "DEMOCRACY."

The following is a list of the recently elected Democratic Central Committee of New York, which we clip from the N. Y. Courier.

Do we not want a little more Americanism?

A few well known politicians, and two or three Germans complete the list.

THE CHINESE SUGAR MILL.

An agricultural correspondent of the Scientific American says he ground in a cider mill and then pressed about half a bushel of the canes of the sugar millet, which he supposed to be worthless, from being too hard with frost, and he obtained a quart of excellent molasses from the juice by evaporation.

He judges that the square rod of ground planted—if the canes had all been used, would have produced with four ge. lons of molasses, or at the rate of 640 gallons per acre. Such a crop would have proved valuable the last year, since sugar and molasses are high.

THE HOT DISTEMPER.

This disease, which has been so fatal at the West, has made its appearance in Massachusetts within the past few weeks.

The Boston Traveler says: "In several towns in this vicinity, as we are informed, about seventy-five hogs have died with great rapidity after they were attacked. One lot of twenty-three was sent from a town in this region to Henniker, N. H., a few days since, and at last accounts all but two were dead."

In some cases the hogs are well at night, eating their food as usual, but are found dead in their pens in the morning. As yet the mortality is noticeable more for its singularity and suddenness, than for its extent. No remedy has yet been discovered for the disorder.

THE NEW ENGLAND PIN COMPANY.

Of Winsted, Connecticut, have just started a new machine for sewing pin upon papers. It selects the little indispensable from a pile and stretches them in a continuous row upon narrow strips of paper, at the rate of 300 per minute.

PROTECTION FROM LOSS BY FIRE!

Are you insured against loss by fire? There are but few who receive sympathy, who incur loss by neglecting this most necessary and substantial precaution.

We also see it announced, that persons have lost their stocks of Goods and Furniture, and the result of years of industry swept from them by the devouring element, over which they have no control, except by being insured.

Insurance protects you from the incendiary, negligence of servants, and the casualties of your neighbors. It will impart confidence to your creditors, and give a character of prudence and precaution to all your business transactions.

It requires but a very small sum to insure in some ranging from $100 to $1,000, and yet how many there are who have no Insurance upon Goods, Furniture, or any thing else. If your Stock is small, still its loss to you might be serious.

THIS COMPANY INSURES Buildings, Merchandise, Goods, Furniture, Machinery and Stock, FROM $100 TO $5,000. At the lowest rates and upon the most liberal terms, and prompt payment on the adjustment of loss.

A Reasonable Notice.

IT being known that I have in business with me a partner, the necessity exists that all my individual accounts should be at once settled up, and the old books laid aside. I therefore solicit all who have open accounts on my books to come forward and settle up. I hope none will neglect this reasonable notice.

DESIRABLE PROPERTY AT AUCTION.

THE subscriber, intending to remove from the State, will

On Monday, February 16, 1857, (Being County Court day.)

On the premises, at 11 o'clock, A.M., offer at Public Sale, to the highest bidder,

THE PROPERTY

In which he now resides, situated on the north east corner of Broadway and Fourth street, Danville, Ky.

As a convenient and comfortable Family Residence, it possesses advantages not always to be found. The house is of brick, two stories high, and built in good style, and contains six rooms, besides closets and well finished rooms in the basement story.

On the lot, are, servant's rooms, smoke-house, wood-house, stable, ice-house, bath-room, flower-pot with superior conveniences, a well of excellent water, a cistern, &c. &c., all in good order.

The Large Jack, GREAT WESTERN.

WILL stand the present season. I am at my stable, 5 miles west of Danville, Ky. He will be permitted to serve a few Jennets at Seventy-five Dollars to insure a living colt, and Twenty-five Dollars for each Jennet sent that fails to breed or brings dead colt. Good blue grass pasture will be furnished Jennets from distance gratis, and grain fed if requested on reasonable terms. Great care will be taken to prevent accidents or escapes, but no liability, should either happen.

Description and Pedigree. GREAT WESTERN is a beautiful 16-h. Black, with nearly nose. He is over 16 hands high, without shoes, and possesses great length, large bone, and powerful muscles; he will be 3 years old in June next. He was sired by Buena Vista, the largest Jack in Kentucky, and probably the largest in the world. He weighed 1400 pounds. He took the cup at Lexington, Pa., Eminence and Louisville, beating and backing out all the best Jacks of Kentucky. Buena Vista was sired by imported Mammoth, the largest Jack ever imported to Kentucky. Great Western's dam was a fine large Jennet, of the Hickman stock. His dam, grandam, and great grandam, were all black.

Persons wishing to raise large stock, or having large Jennets, of Morgeno, Porter, or Black Sampson stock, would do well to give him a call. I think him one of the finest large Jacks in Kentucky, and that his progeny will be imported Mammoth, has done more to increase the size of the Jack stock of Kentucky, than all the Jacks ever imported into Kentucky.

Important to Purchasers.

Cash or Country Produce! WE have concluded from this time forth, to do business exclusively on the "CASH SYSTEM." We believe this will not only be an advantage to us, but to all who deal with us. We know we can afford to sell our Groceries, &c., for a less profit for Cash, or the Produce of the country, than we can under the old credit system. Those who have dealings with us will be charged our cash rates, with the understanding that we settle every four months, the length of time we get credit on our stock, when we buy on time. We can but believe that this arrangement will be perfectly satisfactory to all our customers.

Our present stock of GROCERIES, &c. &c. is very complete, and it is well known that we always keep a full and ample assortment of every thing in our line. We solicit a continuance of patronage from our old customers, and all who wish to purchase Groceries on the cash principle, at the "CASH SYSTEM." McKAY & McNEILL. Jan. 23, '57

SMITH FIELDS. Danville, Jan. 9, '57

DANVILLE.

Friday, Feb. 6, 1857.

The regular February Term of our Circuit Court commenced on Monday last—Hon. THOS. E. BRAMLETTE presiding. The time of the Court thus far has been principally occupied in the hearing and decision of common law cases—and we believe nothing has been done of special or general interest.

Judge Bramlette seems perfectly "at home" on the judicial bench, and dispatches the business of his courts with a readiness and rapidity that show his entire acquaintance with the duties of the office. It is saddening to miss from the bench the old familiar face of Judge BRIDGES, who for many years performed the duties of Judge of our circuit with commanding ability, but as the weight of declining years have caused that old patriarch of the judiciary to retire from the arduous labors of office, it is gratifying to see his place filled by one well qualified to discharge the duties of the position. Judge Bramlette, we learn, enjoys in a very high degree the confidence and respect of the bar, and has already by the dignity and firmness which he unites with his uniform kind and courteous deportment as a presiding officer, made himself popular as a Judge with the masses of the people. The circuit is fortunate in having secured the services of such an excellent and reliable man, and such an able lawyer, as Judge Bramlette.

A large number of distinguished lawyers from abroad, are in attendance at the present term of our Circuit Court. E. L. VANWINKLE, Esq., our popular and talented Attorney for the Commonwealth, is of course on hand, winning here, as everywhere else, hosts of friends and admirers.

HENDERSON FEMALE INSTITUTE.—The second half of the first ten months session of this institution, will commence on Monday next. Mr. MURPHY, the Principal, has competent assistants, and is building up an institution of learning, well worthy the attention of parents and guardians who may have daughters or wards to educate.

DANVILLE FEMALE ACADEMY.—As will be seen by reference to an advertisement in another column, the Trustees of this institution have secured the services of Rev. A. POMROY, of Jackson, Miss., as Principal of the school. Mr. P. is expected to enter upon his duties at an early day. We are informed that he is admirably suited for the position of Principal, having had twenty years experience in the different branches of female education. The Academy commenced its second session on Monday last.

SOMETHING NEW.—WHEELER has now at his popular Ambrotype Gallery, a handsome variety of new and beautiful cases. One style particularly attracted our attention by its original and striking beauty. It is ornamented with an English scene taken from Addison's Spectator, representing Sir Roger de Coverly in consultation with a group of fortune-telling Gypsies. It is a splendid case, and when filled with one of Wheeler's magnificent pictures, would make a most desirable ornament for the parlor table. He has also several elegant styles of pendant cases, embracing both gilt and rosewood; besides a large variety of others "too numerous to mention."

MR. REDDIS, the distinguished portrait painter, can now be found at Wheeler's Gallery.

A HANDSOME SIGN.—The finest and most beautiful sign which we recollect of ever having seen in this place, has just been painted by Mr. C. BURCH, for Wheeler & Bro. The style in which it is painted, we believe is called the "oriental," and certainly cannot be excelled for beauty of appearance. Persons wishing signs painted, we think will be pleased with this new style, which is well adapted especially to small signs of every description. The specimen to which we have referred is now being executed in every respect, and Mr. Burch is prepared to make more of the same quality.

The Lexington Stapleman announces Col. JAMES H. GARRARD, of this county, as the Democratic candidate for the office of State Treasurer. Col. Garrard was the Democratic candidate for the same office in 1855. The election will take place in August next, the Constitution limiting the term of the State Treasurer to two years.

Seneca Lake, New York, is now frozen over for the first time since the settlement of the country.

A TRIUMPH OF AMERICAN PRINCIPLES.—In the lower House of Congress, on Saturday last, the bill was taken up authorizing the election of delegates to form a State Government and Constitution for Oregon. Hon. Humphrey Marshall then offered an amendment to the bill, confining the right of suffrage to citizens of the United States, at the election of the delegates. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 71 to 49. This is very justly regarded as a victory of American principles—and that too, where such a victory just now was least expected to be achieved. It is a clear repudiation of the alien feature of the Kansas bill, and a signal rebuke to the Buchanan Democrats who incorporated that principle into the Democratic platform and advocated it during the recent canvass. The American party has been defeated, but the American sentiment is fast obtaining the ascendancy in the minds of the people.

THE DAMAGE TO THE MILLS.—The damage to the Dix river mills, by the breaking up of the ice in that stream, though quite serious, was not so general as at first supposed and reported.—The dam of Gaines' mill is almost entirely gone—the small portion left, being not sufficient to warrant any attempt to repair it. We suppose that Mr. G. will construct a new dam as soon as possible. Bellows' and Rice's dams, also, we learn, were much injured, and will probably have to be rebuilt. Catron's dam was slightly injured, but the damage, we believe, has been repaired, and the mill is now running. The temporary suspension of the three first mentioned mills, will, perhaps, cause considerable inconvenience in their respective neighborhoods; but the energy of their owners, will doubtless be exerted to put them in order again at the earliest possible time.

THE RIVERS.—The ice in the Ohio had not broken up at last accounts. Our Louisville paper of Wednesday, however, reports the river at that point as rising rapidly, with every prospect of the ice giving way very soon. There is now a good stage of water for the resumption of navigation as soon as the break-up occurs. The river is also rising fast at Cincinnati. The ice has broken up in the Kentucky, and a freshet is expected in that stream, as it is reported to have risen at its head waters about twenty-five feet. A dispatch from St. Louis of the 3d, reports a rapid thaw, and the river there was expected to break up hourly.

THE "American Organ," published at Washington, is one of the very best papers upon our exchange list.—It is always filled with interesting political and miscellaneous reading, and the fact that VESPAIAN ELLIS, Esq., still presides over the editorial department, is a sufficient guaranty of its ability.—The Organ should be liberally sustained by the Americans of the whole country. It is important that the party should have a well supported organ at the national capital. Terms, $2 per annum in advance.

The editor of the Richmond Messenger is in luck. He has married a beautiful wife—has gone to house-keeping, and been receiving presents. One lady sent him a choice ham; another a jar of catsup; another a nice piece of beef; and still another some hominy.

The editor of the Democrat, published in the same town, is also acknowledging the kindness of his friends, one of whom has sent him "a jug of Bourbon buttermilk," (otherwise "red-eye.")—Friend Turner seems to relish the joke mightily.

A bill has passed the House of Representatives of Congress, to increase the pay of the officers of the U. S. Army by the decisive vote of 130 to 62.—This bill proposes to increase the pay of each officer twenty dollars a month, and to fix the money value of the ration at thirty cents instead of twenty, the increase to commence with the present fiscal year (the first of July last.) The measure appears to receive general approbation. It has yet to receive the assent of the Senate.

PACIFIC EMIGRATION.—A movement in the city of New York, among the California merchants, shippers, and others interested in the trade of the Pacific, to remove the obstructions to her progress in population and settlement, has been noticed.

The names associated in the enterprise afford a guarantee of its respectability and integrity. Their plan of operations appears to be, to thoroughly inform the Eastern world of the nature and capacity of California resources; to open the lands to settlement and cultivation, and by means of a good wagon road overland, guarded by government troops (a bill for which is already before Congress,) and additional and cheaper accommodation for emigration. This movement includes the friends of Oregon also.

Barnum is dangerously ill in London. His trip there is said to be a failure.

AMERICANS DISPLACED BY FOREIGNERS.—The new Mayor of Brooklyn has just turned seven American-born citizens out of the Police of that city and appointed Irishmen in their place. The New York Times—which is not devoted to the interests of the American party, remarks as follows upon the subject:—"Has it been proved by experience in Brooklyn that no man is fit for a policeman unless he was born in Ireland—and especially that he is clearly unfit if he was born in this country? Is it absolutely indispensable to the preservation of law and order, that every policeman should be called Patrick, or Michael, or McGuire, and have a good touch of the brogue with other national peculiarities to match? Is there nobody fit to be trusted with the star and club—nobody familiar enough with American law—nobody competent to bid a 'false thief stand'—but an Irishman just from Ireland?"

It is impossible that sensible, reflecting men should not be disgusted with the manner in which foreigners are put in responsible offices, to the exclusion of men born and brought up on American soil. There is no reason for it except the desire to purchase and pay for their political votes. These men are not to blame for taking office, perhaps, however unfit they may be for the performance of its duties. But the demagogues who commit this injustice to American citizens, as well as to society, deserve at least the punishment of general contempt."

STRANGE EFFECTS OF THE SNOW STORM.—The Mayville Eagle says that many farmers in that section of the State, have sustained serious loss in the destruction of hogs by the recent snow storm. The snow which covered the tops and sides of the mountains to the depth of ten or twelve inches, drifted to a much greater depth in the hollows, where the hogs naturally congregated in search of the mast that had rolled down. The snow having concealed their food from them, their whole aim was to keep warm, and that by huddling together in heaps or piles—the largest and fattest beneath and the smaller pigs on top. By this means, immense numbers were overlaid or smothered to death, and those always the fattest and most valuable. Those who were slowest in removing their hogs from the mountains lost heaviest—the average loss being about one-third; and it is believed that all would have been lost from hunger or overlying but for this mode of relief.

On the 20th ult., eleven fires occurred in New York city, destroying a large amount of property. The fire-bells commenced ringing before daylight, and ceased for only brief intervals during the day and night.

Within two weeks past, Mr. Thurston, Cashier of the Bank of Louisville; Captain I. S. Morehead, the well known steamboat agent; T. Thornton, Esq.; E. P. Pope; and James E. Breed, all old and esteemed citizens of Louisville and vicinity, have died.

The Louisville Courier says: "An unusual amount of severe and fatal sickness has prevailed in this city and vicinity during the last few weeks—the result, probably, of the recent severe cold and inclement weather." The Democrat, of the same city, says several cases of small pox are reported, and calls upon the authorities to adopt measures to prevent the spread of the disease.

Some of the leading "Democratic" journals of the North assert that the Buchanan party are even more anxious than the Republicans to make Kansas a free State.

Five Irishmen and one Missouri—own a claim near Grass Valley, Cal., that yields $30,000 worth of the precious mineral every week. As the weekly expenses are only $1,500 it will be seen that they are accumulating a princely fortune.

Mr. James Kirk died at his residence, about two miles from Lebanon, on Monday night, the 19th inst., at the advanced age of 99 years. He served in the revolutionary army, as well as during the war of 1812.

The Dubuque (Iowa) Reporter, of a late date, contains the names of twenty-six persons who froze to death in Minnesota and Iowa. It says that upwards of fifty have perished the same way in the twenty days past.

The Hon. Preston King has been nominated by a caucus of the Republican members of the New York Legislature as a candidate for United States Senator, to succeed the Hon. Hamilton Fish, whose term will expire on the 4th of March next. The nomination is equivalent to an election, as the Republicans have a decided majority on joint ballot in the Legislature.

The caucus of the Democratic members of the Legislature of Indiana have nominated the Hon. Jesse D. Bright and Dr. Fitch as candidates for the United States Senate. They also recommend Gov. Wright for a seat in the Cabinet.

It is suggested that the Government provide stamped wrappers for newspapers.

The American ticket was successful for municipal officers in Atlanta, Ga., on Monday last.

Scarlet fever is prevailing extensively throughout Mississippi—especially in the northern counties.

The Indiana House of Representatives has passed a bill to repeal the liquor law of 1855, by a vote of 70 to 18.

A little girl in Waterville Ct., more than a year ago swallowed a needle, and on New Year's day it came out of her knee.

On Monday, the 5th inst., the entire American ticket for municipal officers was elected in Helena, Ark., by a majority of about 30.

J. R. Giddings has been compelled to leave his seat in Congress and return home. It is thought that he will never recover from his late attack.

It is thought that the recent cold weather has not seriously injured the prospects of a good fruit crop the coming season.

Our readers can judge of the intensity of the cold at the South, from the fact that, on the 16th ult., a negro man was frozen to death at Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Mayor Powell, of Brooklyn, New York, has removed every American in the police force of the city, and appointed Irishmen to the stations. His motto is: Put no Americans on guard.

The Henderson (Ky.) Reporter, of the 29th inst., expresses its preference for Ex-Governor L. W. Powell, as Secretary of the Navy, under the new administration.

DESTITUTION.—It is stated that there are full three hundred families of free negroes within the limits of Cincinnati, in a state of utter destitution and want—all objects of misery, and depending solely upon charity to sustain life.

At London, a few weeks since, a man was playing with a cat, when the animal seized one of his fingers with its teeth so tightly that he had great difficulty in shaking it off. At night he became unwell, and afterwards went into St. Bartholomew's Hospital, where the injured finger mortified, and he died.

Among the many sharp things in "Porter's Spirit," is the following, which, considering the recent spell of cold weather, is about as sharp as need be. A heavy fire having occurred in Cleveland, a safe manufacturing firm in New York, wrote to the sufferers from the fire to ascertain how one of their safes had stood the scorching. The proprietor wrote back that the "safe" was "safe,"—that it was wonderful, and adds that the night previous to the fire one of the clerks placed a Shanghai rooster in the safe for safe-keeping. In the morning the safe was dug out RED-HOT, opened, and the rooster found "leaving up against the ledger, FROZEN TO DEATH!" The yarn is rather trying to a man's faith, but we suppose it must be true—in a horn.

SEASONABLE ADVICE TO FARMERS.—The Courier, published at Newcastle, Henry county, Indiana, contains the following suggestion, which is worthy of attention in all places where the groves of sugar maple trees have not been destroyed:

After the first of March, every pound of sugar you buy will cost you fifteen cents at least. This is a very unusual price, and to persons of moderate means places this indispensable article almost in the category of luxuries. We say, therefore, prepare yourself for the sugar season, and make sufficient for your own family use, and some to spare.—Get your troughs ready, make your spades and be ready by the first snow to tap the trees. The first run is always the best, and you should be ready to avail yourself of it. If our farmers will take hold of this matter right, with anything like a favorable season, can produce sugar enough for home consumption, and save an actual cash outlay of five thousand dollars!

Speaking of the prospects of the Big Sandy Railroad, the Mt. Sterling Whig says:

We have been assured by the indefatigable President of the road, Mr. Apperson, that in a few weeks the force on the road from this place to Lexington will be sufficiently large to finish the grading in a few months, when we shall have over fifty miles of the road in running order.

SNOW BREAK.—We find the annexed paragraph in one of our exchanges. It is curious, if true:

All persons, where snow abounds, are not perhaps aware of the value of the fiery cakes in making light, delicious and wholesome bread. No raising in the world is so perfectly physiological as good, fresh, sweet snow, it raises bread or cakes as the best yeast, or the purest acids or alkalis, while it leaves no taint or fermentation like the former, nor injurious neutral salt like the latter. Indeed it raises by supplying atmosphere wherewith to puff up the dough, while the other methods only supply carbonic acid gas.

The mining operations of California are said to be paying better than for several years.

SAD FATE OF KENTUCKIANS IN NICARAGUA.—The Louisville Courier gives the following extract from a letter received in that city from Mr. Joseph Winter, one of the Louisville recruits to Gen. Walker. It is dated Rivas, Dec. 20, 1856, and is the latest direct news from the Nicaraguan army:

"I am tired of this country and intend to get away from it as soon as I can. I have not time to write to Major Vaughn, but do me the favor to inform him that his son, Lieut. Edward Vaughn died about three weeks since. Neglect on the part of his medical attendants was the principal cause of his death. He was destitute of everything except what he had on his back. But that is the case with all of us."

Lieut. Ed. Cross and some of his men were buried alive. Nearly all of the men from Louisville are dead. Jim Means, the tailor, is dead. I have been in five battles, am satisfied, and want to come back."

The time to marry is a question which seriously embarrasses a good many, old and young. We refer them to the following precedents set them by eminent persons:

Adam and Eve, - - - 0	Luther, - - - 42
Addison, - - - 41	Mozart, - - - 35
Aristotle, - - - 36	Old Parr, last time, 129

If Adam and Eve got married before they were a year old, and the veteran Parr hitched to a widow at 120, bachelors and spinsters may wed at any age they like, and find shelter under great names for early marriages or late.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

"This is the best world that we live in, To lend, or to spend, or to give in, But to borrow, or beg, or get a man's own, 'Tis the worst world that ever was known."

I hope all indebted to me will call and settle their accounts. If not, I will try and make them. Money I must and will have.

Respectfully,

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.—Prof. Wood, the renowned discoverer of the invaluable Hair Restorative, still continues to labor in behalf of the afflicted. His medicines are universally admitted by the American press to be far superior to all others for causing the hair on the head of the aged, that has been silvered for many years, to grow forth with as much vigor and luxuriance as when blessed with the advantages of youth. There can be no doubt that it is one of the greatest discoveries in the medical world.—It restores permanently gray hair to its original color, and makes it assume a beautiful silky texture, which has been very desirable in all ages of the world.—Cincinnati Daily Sun.
